LEXIKÄN

LexiKän is a new economy development group that originates and matures ideas beneficial to people, place, and planet. LexiKän places a keen interest and focus on measures that implement new technological tools for simplifying and accelerating human expansion and growth.

Our Purpose

LexiKän is an independent, privately funded organization concentrated into three fields: fintech, human optimization and sustainable power.

Since our founding by a family of solution driven freethinkers, we have been an educational innovation.

Today, that spirit rests at the core of our research and how we are preparing new technologies that will help shape tomorrow.

We are here to prepare a better world for future generations by producing technological solutions and products to advance human development while improving our collective ecosystem.

LexiKän's spirit of interdisciplinary research has:

1. developed a phonemic orthographic system for the English language that is symmetric in writing and sound;
2. prepared a life program that synchronizes the human mind and body to its natural rhythm;
3. developed a "earn-to-learn" e-learning platform for art and education;
4. produced the world's first electrically formulated monoatomic energy blend that increases brain and body function;
5. originated the first "Quantum Compass" through the infusion of the three Mesoamerican cycles based on the 260 day "human calendar" (the Mayan Tzolkin, the Aztec Tonalpohualli, and the Jose Arguelles Harmonic Module);
6. composed the synergism of the sacred writings of the ancient faiths (Bhagavad-Gita, Old and New Testament, and the Holy Qur'an) in 8 Volumes (over 1,200 articles);
7. initiated a fintech solution that will revolutionize global trading and digital currency.
8. discovered the epigenetic reprogramming of the DNA through linguistic science.

Sustainability

Regenerative City

It is the year 2020 and the city of Detroit is a global leader in sustainability and innovation. Detroiters are thriving and excited to talk about the decade long transformation of their city back to the global economy leader that it was in the mid 1900s.

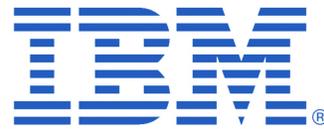

Detroit processes all its organic and non-organic waste, often at the point of consumption. Significant energy is generated through the biogas produced from organic by-products. Detroit generates nearly 80% of its energy from renewable sources and offsets the remaining 20% through the trade and sale of carbon bonds in International markets.

The city is described as a dynamic synergy of urban, suburban and country, a sprawling green zone generating nearly all food locally or through interactive trading and commerce based in the city. Education has become paramount to this success story as the 10 year transformation was spearheaded by the youth who took the lead when given the opportunity to choose a positive course forward. The eyes of the entire planet are now on Detroit and many cities from London, Berlin, Mexico City and Cairo are quickly moving to duplicate the model of sustainability and regenerative systems and education first realized in Detroit, Michigan!"
